- I can talk about school subjects.
- I can ask who, what, when, where questions.

Let's Explore!

Vanessa is thinking of applying to a culinary school to stay in San Francisco. She is going to send them an email tomorrow!

* You use "be going to" to express your intention to do something.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Aunt Nelly: Are you enjoying your stay in San Francisco?
Vanessa: Yes. I love this city. I'm thinking of staying here a while longer.
Aunt Nelly: Oh, really? What are you planning to do?
Vanessa: I'm looking into applying to a few schools in the area.
Aunt Nelly: Wow! Which ones?
Vanessa: Well, I love cooking, music and art ...
Aunt Nelly: We have an excellent culinary school here. The Blue Ribbon Academy offers great programs and scholarships.
Vanessa: I'm going to send them an e-mail tomorrow!
Aunt Nelly: What are your friends going to do next?
Vanessa: Sally is thinking of studying creative writing, and Peter is planning to further his business studies. I'm not sure. John has no intention of going back to school at the moment. I wonder how he is ...
