Let's Start!

Pronunciation Spot: Take Me on the Tour of the Kremlin

Learning Outcome

Accurately use information about people's jobs and places of work in communicative situations.

Can Do Statements

- I can use homophones like add and ad.
- I can use weak form.
- I can identify key information in a short audio.

Ask your partner:

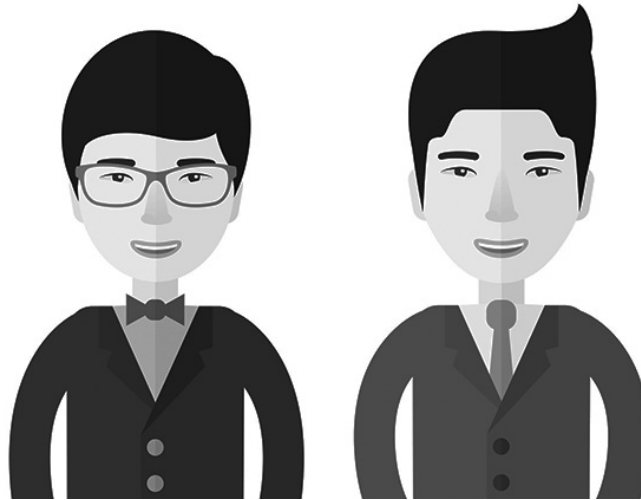

- Did you see any government buildings in your city or town recently? Do you know the story behind these buildings?

Let's Explore!

Listen to the advertisement for a tour of the Kremlin.

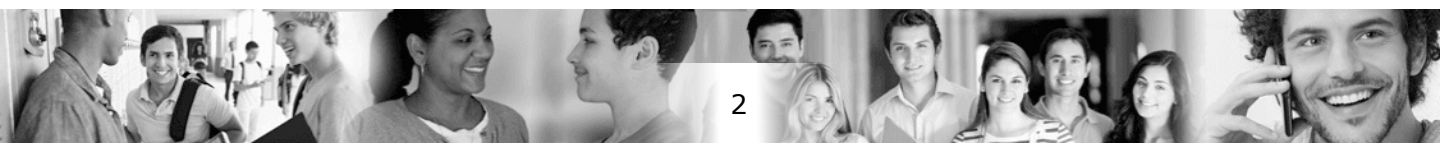

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Book a spot on our "fortress inside a city" tour, departing daily.

Our Kremlin tour starts at 8:00 a.m. on the banks of the Moskva River. Inside the fortified complex you will be guided through five different palaces. There is a morning tea at 10 a.m. in The Great Kremlin Palace. It was home to the 19th century Tsars and has 700 rooms. Tourists can say they ate with ghosts!

At 10:45 a.m., the tour moves outside to the grounds. There, you can see the armory building, followed by the Tsar Cannon. From the cannon, tourists can get an uninterrupted view of Cathedral Square. Cathedral Square is famous as the site of coronations and funeral processions mourning Russian Tsars. Finally, our guides will share their knowledge about the Tsar Bell, the biggest bell in the world.

Call 334 553 5454 to book. Don't delay.

Let's Practice!

Learning Points

Weak Forms

In connected speech, weak forms are syllable sounds that become unstressed.

In this example sentence, the first 'do' is a weak form and the second is stressed.

Example: What do you want to do this weekend?

Conjunctions, prepositions, articles and auxiliaries are often pronounced in their weak form as they are not keywords and are not normally stressed.

In comparison to stressed syllables, weak forms are pronounced quicker and said in a lower volume.

Weak Word	Example
a	I've got a new pair of pants.
am	I'm not going home tonight?
an	There is an orange.
as	It was as big as a house.
at	Vanessa works at night.
be	He is going to be early.
the	Have you seen the back door keys?
was	It was a lovely day.
were	They were early again.
